

FULLMER

LEGACY FOUNDATION

Body | Mind | Spirit

APPROPRIATIONS REQUEST:

$2 million in one-time state-funded money to match public and private contributions for the construction of a 16,500 GSF

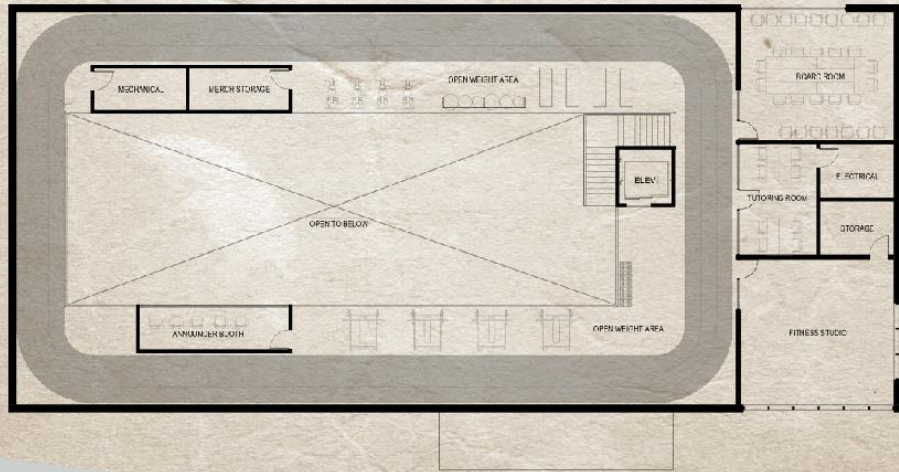

FULLMER LEGACY CENTER

Level 1

Level 2

VCBO ARCHITECTURE | FULLMER BOXING CENTER 26

CONSTRUCT THE FULLMER LEGACY CENTER.

The FLC will become a permanent facility for Fullmer Boxing and Rocky Mountain Golden Gloves, an event space for local, regional, and national amateur boxing tournaments, and a shared community space with South Jordan City and Salt Lake County where individuals of all ages can train and be mentored in physical, mental, and emotional well-being.

$6,000,000

Body | Mind | Spirit

Support FULLMER BOXING and ROCKY MOUNTAIN GOLDEN GLOVES amateur boxing program. The gym has for more than three decades provided at-risk youth, both boys and girls, along with adults, the opportunity to build strength of character in the unique sport of boxing and to be part of a broader community to build strength and character.

PRESERVE THE FULLMER LEGACY. While brothers Gene, Jay, and Don were acclaimed professional boxers in boxing's "Golden Age," their great legacy is in their work with youth in our community where they became mentors to thousands. The FLF is dedicated to instilling the values of hard work and discipline to create stronger, more resilient citizens of our community through wellness in body, mind, and spirit.

Body | Mind | Spirit

"We try to give them goals to live by. We try to get them to do the very best they can. We're not saying everybody's going to end up being a champion. But, I can guarantee you, if they keep coming down, they'll be better kids and they'll be better citizens—that's all we can ask."

– Jay Fullmer